

Invitation for Transformational Leaders

Transformational leaders are filled with the ultimate belief that we can indeed change the world. They accept responsibility for the future and for co-creating it with others who feel this passion to move ever forward in this great evolution, outside and within.

They've experienced that moment of insight, that flash of certitude in their souls that every moment is a fresh dimension of the one just past in an immutable flow forward. All relationships, in this new evolutionary context, have new meaning. The beaten path no longer holds allure.

Transformational leaders listen deeply and can discern both the strongest messages and the least heard, for both are important. They become incubators of innovation, seeking fresh approaches and ever more appropriate ways to convey inspired ideas. They challenge their own inner resistance to change, transcending old dogma and negative messages of the past. In doing so, they create room for new generations of insights and deeper, more holistic understanding, finding courage to challenge the status quos in the world.

Co-creating is not an easy dance. This evolutionary process is fueled by the electricity of exacting minds colliding and converging from varied perspectives to bring forth a metamorphosis of the future. Cocreating takes the best, even the unrealized, from every architect involved to find purposeful paths to common dreams and new realities. Building a new world and a new culture is a thrilling dance, the most challenging life work, the most ambitious reach that humans can make with their outstretched souls to touch that place in the next, better dimension. Its needs are ever expanding, ever evolving. It calls out for more architects, more minds that are ready to be transformed so they might do the demanding dance of transformation.

*Each of us
can feel a mysterious evolutionary
impulse
compelling
us to dare
to play a role in creating our future.*

*Our response to it
opens unimaginable
possibilities.*

*Feel your part in
this evolution.*

*Bring your gifts, your heart
to this table of discovery.*

*Become the breakthrough
to a better world.*

Be the immutable flow forward.
